Walkover Collection rededication

Friends and family gathered in the library on November 9th to rededicate the collection named for popular law school professor and associate dean Andrew Walkover, who died of cancer in 1988. The collection was created by Andy's family and friends, who decided that the best way to keep his spirit alive in the law school was to provide a selection of books that he would have liked and recommended to people. Recently, a committee was created to select new material on an ongoing basis to keep the

New exhibit devoted to Prof. McGee

The library is kicking off an exhibit series devoted to faculty interests and accomplishments with a display devoted to Professor Henry McGee. Some milestones in Professor McGee's career so far reflected in the exhibit include his work with the Committee for Legal Assistance in the South during the Civil Rights Movement, his support of the Black Law Journal at UCLA, a Fulbright Scholarship to the University of Madrid in 1982, a semester as visiting senior lecturer on international environmental law at Witwatersrand University in Johannesburg, South Africa, in Spring of 1999, and his service last summer as legal advisor to the Samoan delegation to the International Criminal Court Preparatory Conference at the United Nations. Professor McGee is also an accomplished violinist currently playing with the Seattle Philharmonic Orchestra. Come see the milestones and mementos in the library exhibit area in the 4th floor Dolliver Reading Room.

New enhancements to THEO

New functionality has been added to THEO and some of the databases accessible through it:

- LegalTrac and Index to Foreign Legal Periodicals (ILP) are now accessible from off campus through the "Databases" pull-down menu on THEO. You will be prompted for your Seattle University e-mail logon and password.
- The export function was added to THEO last summer, and has proven to be quite useful for compiling bibliographies. When looking at search results, you are now able to "check" boxes next to records you want, click on the "Save Marked Records" button, then select "Export Saved List" to download, e-mail, or print only the records you have chosen.
- An electronic Interlibrary Loan (ILL) form is now available through the "Library Information" pull-down menu on THEO. Be sure to read instructions carefully before submitting the form to ensure that your request reaches us.

Site checking

Some websites of interest:

Disability Etiquette Handbook

One of the suggestions offered at the Law School's afternoon session on Mission Day was for diversity training. This site, produced by the City of San Antonio, Texas Planning Department, provides insight for those who might be working with a person who has a disability for the first time. Sections address proper etiquette in various situations, reasonable accomodation, a list of "do and don'ts," and a glossary of accepted terminology that demonstrates, among other things, the semantic difference between "handicap" and "disability."

Governments on the WWW

If you ever need to find websites on Burundi or Andorra in a hurry, bookmark this page. For a list of IGOs, go to Northwestern University Library's International Governmental Organizations.

Cartoonbank.com

If you need a good laugh, visit this searchable database of classic cartoons from the New Yorker. A keyword search of "lawyer" brings up 253 cartoons, whereas "criminal" only brings up 32.

Missing books

Have you seen these books? These are missing volumes for which we have looseleaf filing, supplements, and pocket parts. We encourage the law school community to return any of these materials to the Circulation Desk so that they may be updated and so that we do not have to purchase expensive replacement copies.
