Social Justice Monday - The Moderate Means Program:

April 2 | 12:00 – 1:00 pm | Sullivan Hall C5 – Soup Lunch Provided

Join Professor Clay Wilson to learn about the Moderate Means Program and then sign up to intern this summer and gain client interviewing skills and make legal analysis on behalf of real clients!

The Moderate Means Program (MMP) is an ATJI Partnership Project run in collaboration with the Washington State Bar Association and the two other law schools in Washington State. Seattle University was the first law school to implement the program in the Spring of 2011. The purpose of the program is to increase access to civil legal services for moderate means individuals (those between 200% and 400% of the federal poverty level) who cannot afford to hire private attorneys at market rates but make too much money to qualify for traditional civil legal aid services. Through this program, eligible clients can get assistance in the areas of Family, Consumer and Housing law.

Upcoming Events

Fall OCI Information Week

April 9-13

What is Fall OCI? OCI (On-Campus Interviews) is an opportunity for you to meet with legal employers, including large law firms and government agencies, in August. Employers interview rising 2Ls for 2019 Summer Associate positions (and rising 3Ls/4Ls for academic-year and post-graduate positions). Join CPD for the events below to learn more about this annual hiring program and how you can stand out from the crowd (in a good way!).

K&L Gates: On Campus With Espresso!

April 10 | 9:00 – 11:00am | Court Level

Join attorneys and recruiting staff from K&L Gates for delicious free espresso drinks! Drop by anytime between 9 & 11am to meet with firm representatives, learn about the firm and the attorney's practice areas, and indulge in a coffee or two. K&L Gates participates in Fall OCI each year in August to interview for summer positions. Don't miss this opportunity to engage with the attorneys and recruiting staff, and gather tips on positioning yourself for a successful OCI interview. Participants will include SU alumni.

Fall OCI Information Session

April 10 | 12:00 – 12:50pm | Sullivan Hall 110

CPD will provide information about the Fall OCI application process including tips for preparing strong materials, the mechanics of submitting applications through Symplicity, and an overview of the "bidding" and interview process. Don't be fooled by the name, applications for "Fall" OCI are submitted starting in early to mid-July and interviews will take place during the weeks of August 6, 13, and 20! Questions? Contact Contact Info Redacted.

The Japanese American Incarceration: Civil Liberties & Upholding the Rule of Law, Then and Now

April 13 | 8:30am – 12:30pm | Pigott Auditorium

During World War II, 120,000 persons of Japanese ancestry were removed from their West Coast homes and incarcerated in desolate camps in the interior U.S. Two-thirds were American citizens. They had committed no crimes; they were incarcerated simply because of their race. Please join us for an important discussion of the infamous Supreme Court cases that upheld that incarceration, the coram nobis cases that successfully reopened them, and their haunting present-day relevance.

Distinguished speakers include Karen Korematsu, daughter of Fred Korematsu, who challenged the wartime orders in Korematsu v. United States, and Judge Marilyn Hall Patel, who vacated Mr. Korematsu's conviction.

Program made possible through the generous support of Miller Nash Graham & Dunn LLP, Seattle University School of Law, and its Fred T. Korematsu Center for Law and Equality, Minami Tamaki Yamauchi Kwok & Lee Foundation, and the Law Offices of Rodney L. Kawakami.

This event is free to members of the public and students. Lawyers may also pay for CLE credit. Registration is required.

Drug Pricing Panel

April 19 | 12:00 – 1:00pm | Sullivan Hall 110

Health Law Society is hosting a panel discussion about what factors go into calculating the price of drugs around the world, including how intellectual property factors into these determinations. Individuals with different backgrounds and experiences will be on the panel in order to achieve a diverse conversation. Lunch will be provided.

Career Opportunities in Indian Law

April 19 | 12:00 – 1:00pm | Sullivan Hall C5

What does it mean to work in Indian Law? Attorneys with an understanding of Native American culture and legal issues are in high demand. Join the Center for Indian Law & Policy to learn more about the careers of attorneys who are working in Indian country. The panel will discuss their career paths, share their challenges, and offer tips for getting into this line of work. The Center for Indian Law & Policy will also offer brief remarks. Following the presentation will be a 15-minute Q and A.

Firearm Surrender Program: Protecting Domestic Violence Victims

April 19 | 5:00 – 7:00pm | Sullivan Hall 2nd Floor Gallery

Future Prosecutors for Social Justice will host a panel of speakers involved in the City of Seattle and King County's Firearm Surrender Program. The panel will discuss how the program has helped protect abuse survivors and the public.

Abusers accused of domestic violence are often ordered by the court to surrender their firearms. However, of the abusers who receive a court order to surrender their firearms, more than half ignore the order. Additionally, out of the very small number of abusers who do respond, very few actually give up their guns.

The City of Seattle and King County, along with efforts from the Seattle Police Department, are working to follow-up with these surrender orders and ensure compliance by the accused abuser. In May 2017, the Seattle City Council approved legislation to dedicate funding to enforce a state law that required domestic abusers to surrender their firearms.

This panel will be both engaging and informative. Light appetizers and wine will be served. We hope to see you there!

Washington State Minority and Justice Commission – Law Student Liaison Position

Deadline April 18 | Open to students who will be 2Ls or 3Ls in fall 2018

The Washington State Minority and Justice Commission is a Commission of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington charged with the mission of eradicating racial and ethnic bias in the justice system. Student liaisons, while non-voting, are integral parts of work of the commission, and they have the opportunity to learn about pressing issues affecting minorities within the justice system and to meet many of the leaders on those issues. Liaisons should attend all Minority and Justice Commission meetings, contribute to the work of the commission, bring back the work of the commission to the law school, and collaborate with student liaisons from the other law schools. Please contact Liz Guinn Contact Info Redacted for more information.

Incoming Students Looking for Housing

With the end of the semester quickly approaching, this time of year is when many newly admitted students are finalizing plans to attend Seattle U Law. Many incoming students have questions about finding housing in Seattle.

If you or anyone you know has space for rent, or might be interested in connecting with an incoming 1L as a potential roommate, please send a quick note to Contact Info Redacted describing your housing situation, or stop by the Office of Admissions on the 2nd floor to chat with Gerald, Roderick, or Colin.

Thank you,
