Virtual Events This Week

Social Justice Monday: The Defender Initiative: The Calhoun Family Fellowship

Nov 9 | 12:00 – 1:00 pm | Contact Info Redacted

The Calhoun Family Fellowship provides an opportunity for Seattle University School of Law students to study and work on equal justice issues, focused on juvenile law challenges, while meeting with an array of experienced public interest lawyers and judges and community activists. This summer was the third in the Fellowship's history. This session will describe the experience of the 2020 summer Fellows as well as provide a chance for you to ask questions about next summer's program. Four of the Fellows will be present to discuss their experience and answer your questions.

ARC 2L Workshop: Multiple choice and preparing for finals (T&E)

Nov 9 | 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. | Contact Info Redacted Contact Info Redacted)

The last workshop will focus on strategies for multiple choice questions on exams and how to create a final exam study schedule. We will discuss the best practices on multiple choice questions, common mistakes students make, and how to tell the difference between assumptions and inferences when making legal conclusions. Additionally, we will review how to create an efficient final exam study schedule that utilizes interleaving, spaced learning, and emphasizes active memorization.
