

Seattle Journal for Social Justice

Volume 20 | Issue 4

Article 7

5-15-2022

About the Authors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.law.seattleu.edu/sjsj>

Recommended Citation

(2022) "About the Authors," Seattle Journal for Social Justice: Vol. 20: Iss. 4, Article 7.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.law.seattleu.edu/sjsj/vol20/iss4/7>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Publications and Programs at Seattle University School of Law Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Seattle Journal for Social Justice by an authorized editor of Seattle University School of Law Digital Commons.

About the Authors

TAYYAB MAHMUD

Tayyab Mahmud is a Professor at Seattle University School of Law, where he has also served as Associate Dean for Research and Faculty Development and Director, Center for Global Justice. He has published extensively in the areas of comparative constitutional law, human rights, international law, legal history, and legal theory. From 2006–2008, he was Co-President of the Society of American Law Teachers (SALT). Currently, he serves on the Steering Committee of the Board of Directors of Latina/o Critical Legal Studies, Inc. (LatCrit).

BERTA ESPERANZA HERNÁNDEZ-TRUYOL

Berta Esperanza Hernández-Truyol currently holds the Stephen C. O'Connell Chair at the University of Florida Fredric G. Levin College of Law. She is a human rights scholar whose initiatives seek to develop, expand, and transform the human rights discourse. She utilizes an interdisciplinary and international framework to promote human well-being and social justice around the globe. Hernández-Truyol focuses on issues of gender, race, ethnicity, culture, sexuality, language, and other marginabilities as well as their interconnections. Often centering on Latinas and la Cultura Latina, her body of work includes over 100 articles and chapters that critically examine equality, privacy, and dignity through a human rights lens. Currently, she is developing an innovative, justice-seeking theory on awakening the law. Myriad disciplines embrace the awakening concept which fosters the attaining of a deep consciousness about and connection with the human condition.

ELIZABETH L. MACDOWELL

Elizabeth L. MacDowell is a Professor of Law at the William S. Boyd School of Law at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. She has taught and directed live client clinics at Boyd since 2010, including the Family Justice Clinic, focusing on families and communities impacted by intersecting state regulatory regimes, and (since Fall 2020) the Policing and Protest Clinic, a community lawyering clinic emerging from the BLM movement. She also teaches Criminal Procedure, and introduced Boyd’s first Poverty Law course in 2018, which she continues to teach. Professor MacDowell’s scholarship examines and theorizes the nexus of identity, state regulation, and access to justice. She was named a Bellow Scholar for 2013 by the AALS Clinical Section for her empirical study of domestic violence self-help clinics, and was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship in 2017–2018 for her project, Advocacy at the Intersection: Providing Access to Justice for Domestic Violence Survivors in Family Courts in Turkey and the U.S. She presents her scholarship and lectures internationally.

NINA L. TERZIAN

Nina L. Terzian, Esq. is a first-generation college and law school graduate and the first attorney of her family. Her interests and identities as a queer, neurodivergent second-generation Armenian American “eldest daughter” have driven her work to connect with grassroots organizers, visionaries, and strategic networks centering local sustainability, collective and individual healing, and community support. She is a 2021 graduate of the William S. Boyd School of Law at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, where she served on the Executive Board of OUTLaws (the law student LGBTQI+ association) and as a student liaison for Boyd’s Race, Gender, and Policing Board. Nina participated in the founding meetings for the Justice Reform and Accountability Association (a local coalition-based legislative advocacy group). In 2020, she earned a CALI Award for her work as a student attorney and founding member of the Policing and Protest Clinic directed by Professor Elizabeth MacDowell. She currently practices law in Las Vegas, NV, at Koeller, Nebeker, Carlson & Haluck, LLP.

HUGO ROJAS

Hugo Rojas is a Lecturer in Sociology of Law and Human Rights at Alberto Hurtado University and a Researcher at the Millennium Institute on Violence and Democracy (VioDemos). He has a Ph.D. in Sociology (Oxford), an M.Sc. in Law, Anthropology & Society (LSE), and an M.Sc. in Management and Public Policy (UAI). His most recent books are HUMAN RIGHTS AND TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE IN CHILE (with M. Shaftoe, Palgrave Macmillan 2022), PAST HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS AND THE QUESTION OF INDIFFERENCE: THE CASE OF CHILE (Palgrave Macmillan 2022), and LITIGACIÓN PENAL ESTRATÉGICA EN JUICIOS ORALES (with R. Blanco, L. Moreno & M. Decap, Tirant lo Blanch 2021).

CECI LOPEZ

Ceci Lopez is an assistant professor and director of the Law, Diversity and Justice (LDJ) program at Fairhaven College of Interdisciplinary Studies, Western Washington University. Ceci is a graduate of the LDJ program ('08), where she found her passion for the law and critical legal theory. She attended University of Washington School of Law ('11 & '12) where she obtained a JD and LLM in Taxation degrees. Born and raised in Guatemala during the civil war, Lopez incorporates her observations about power dynamics and community resiliency during the war in all of her classes and her research. Lopez, honoring her ancestral knowledge of love, focuses her research and inquiry around developing/dreaming of systems of social organization that are centered in notions of justice as healing, collaboration, and community building.

DOLORES CALDERÓN

Dolores Calderón is an associate professor at Fairhaven College of Interdisciplinary Studies at Western Washington University. Calderón teaches in the Law, Diversity and Justice Program and the Education and Social Justice Minor. As a researcher who embodies the complicated subjectivities of the U.S./Mexico border—Mexican (arrivant/immigrant), Indigenous (Pueblo), and U.S. citizen—Calderón is interested in researching and participating in work that untangles and unpacks the complicated way multiple colonialisms impact decolonial practices in education.

FRANCISCO VALDES

Francisco Valdes teaches constitutional law and systemic advocacy law at the University of Miami, and is a founding member of the LatCrit Board.

STEVEN W. BENDER

Steven Bender is a national academic leader in helping to articulate a vision for an antistatist future and to implement that vision within law and society. Among his honors, the Minority Groups Section of the Association of American Law Schools presented him with the C. Clyde Ferguson, Jr., Award, a prestigious national award recognizing scholarly reputation, mentoring of junior faculty, and teaching excellence. He joined the Seattle University Law faculty from the University of Oregon in 2011 and served as Associate Dean for Research and Faculty Development from 2014–2017 and is now the Associate Dean for Planning and Strategic Initiatives. Associate Dean Bender is an elected member of the American Law Institute, the American College of Real Estate Lawyers, and the American College of Mortgage Attorneys. During 2009–2011, Bender served as co-president of the Society of American Law Teachers (SALT) and also served multiple leadership roles in LatCrit. He is also the co-founder of the Law and Society Association collaborative research network for displaced persons.

JENNIFER J. HILL

Jennifer Hill is an organizer, attorney, teacher, and writer. Based in Miami, Hill has worked throughout the U.S. South to build worker power, address structural racism and gender inequality, and improve labor standards. She has served with workers' centers, labor unions, immigrant rights organizations, and international labor solidarity groups and has supported nannies, homecare workers, and housekeepers organizing to build power and to combat labor trafficking and wage theft. Hill is a former Skadden Fellow and teaches as an adjunct at Florida International University.